The State Meeting at Little Rock.

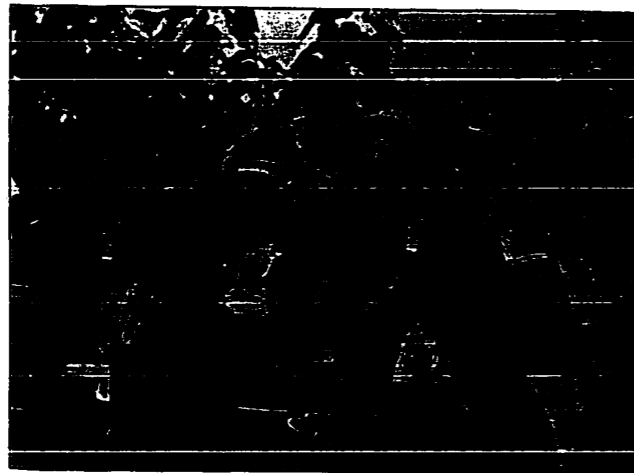

In another column will be found the formal report of the concatenation at Little Rock, Ark., on July 4. The report shows that twenty-two men were admitted to the mysteries, and to this extent shows that the meeting was a success, but the bare report gives not a hint of the doings on the side. The business men of Little Rock had decided weeks before, through their Board of Trade—which, by the way, is one of the liveliest civic bodies in the whole Southwest—to celebrate the "glorious Fourth" in the old-fashioned, time-honored way. The board was backed up by the people of Little Rock, black and white alike, and such a jolly holiday as they did have! In the morning there was a trades display, and in the afternoon there was a flower parade. In the former were shown the progress and enterprise of the business men of the city; in the latter, the beauty and grace of her women. The one was as great as the other, and the other was as great as the one. There is a glory of the terrestrial and a glory of the celestial, and one star differeth from another star in glory. Though there may be some carping critics who think they should have been in the flower parade, the Hoo-Hoo, with all the unique trappings provided, were assigned a place in the trades procession. But they all lined up later, from Capt. Snark Lock down, and no feature of the flower parade escaped them. In the trades procession the Hoo-Hoo were easily the most unique and conspicuous. They numbered forty-nine in the parade, with Vicegerent W. C. Norman and H. E. Miller, of the local committee, at the head. All were mounted on mules, attired in black gowns, and carried gay-colored Japanese parasols. Upon their backs were placards of which these are a sample: "Tell Mother that You Saw Me," "The Innocent Ones," "We Suffer for the VICEGERENT W. C. NORMAN.

Sins of Others," "I'm It," "The Way of the Transgressor is Hard," "Where is My Friend John?" "Why Don't You Take Life Easy?" "Who Sees Us?" "On the Hurricane Deck," "I Wish I Was Home," "This Beats the Street Cars," "Embalmed Beef," "I Am Hard Up Against the Real Thing," "We Have Troubles of Our Own," etc. Preceding this caravan were carriages containing Capt. George W. Lock, Snark of the Universe; Mr. W. E. Barns, of the House of Ancients; George W. Swartz and William Star Mitchell, of the "Original Six of Hoo-Hoo;" the two Bertig brothers, of Paragould, Ark.; and Mr. G. B. Meiser, the Vicegerent for the northeastern district of the State.

The concatenation followed in the evening, and was held at a magnificent hall out in a residence suburb, among spreading shade trees and lush grasses. Snark Lock, at the request of the two Vicegerents, opened the ceremonies; while Mr. W. E. Barns filled the station of Junior Hoo-Hoo throughout as only he can fill it. It is needless to chronicle that not a dull moment intervened, from the first entrance to the final tests. The initiation was concluded at about midnight, when the crowd repaired to the lower floor of the hall, where was spread a table in the form of a mammoth H, and loaded with things to make a man's mouth water. A mint julep on the specifications of the "Arkansas Planter" was the appetizer, and a great punch bowl the nucleus around which centered the more weighty viands. The hour was too late for much speechmaking, but the attention bestowed upon the tables bespoke an appreciation louder than words could have done.

Vicegerent W. C. Norman, in whose jurisdiction Little Rock is, and members of the Order resident in the city deserve unstinted credit for this celebration. The local committee practically embraced every Hoo-Hoo in the town, and to particularize would prove invidious. Mr. William Star Mitchell, as the president of the Board of Trade, naturally had supervision of the whole celebration—trades display, flower parade, and the concatenation. The smooth way in which it all passed off is a great tribute to his executive ability and capacity for hard work. Mr. H. E. Miller, of the E. C. Wehrfritz Machinery and Supply Company, proved also to be a man of energy and ability and a Hoo-Hoo of the right stamp.

Mr. Barns having brought along his little snap shots, we are able to reproduce two excellent group photographs made on the occasion.

The meeting had one feature unprecedented, perhaps, in Hoo-Hoo annals. A special, chartered train was run from Memphis to bring the trunk. The circumstances were that the Scrivener, owing to a sudden death in his family, was unable to leave Nashville until the night of July 3, and, owing to a washout on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, he reached Memphis after all the trains that could land him and the trunk at Little Rock before midnight of the Fourth had departed. Something had to be done, and through the courtesy of the officials of the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad it was accomplished. These men, as soon as the matter could be put before them, put a special train on the track and proposed to make a record run of it from Memphis to Little Rock, and at actual cost of the train service. The run was made, and but for this prompt action of the "Choctaw" people the meeting would have been a failure, to the disappointment of men gathered from all over the State and from many States. Special credit is due Brother C. J. Warrick, of Memphis, who is city passenger agent there of the "Choctaw Route;" to Mr. J. F. Halden, traffic manager; and Mr. George H. Lee, general passenger agent of the road, of Little Rock.

Prospective Concatenations.

The two enterprising Vicegerents for Illinois—Brother H. S. Candee, of the Southern District, and Brother J. L. Glaser, of the Northern District—have hit on the very excellent plan of holding, jointly, a big concatenation at Chicago, by way of celebrating Hoo-Hoo Day and preserving and upholding its traditions. To this end they have issued the following circular letter to every member in Illinois:

"Chicago, July 9.—Dear Brother Hoo-Hoo: The regular annual Hoo-Hoo Day, according to Article VI., Section 1, of our Constitution, is the ninth day of the ninth month, which this year falls on Sunday.

"Owing to the Annual Meeting this year being held in Dallas, Texas, on account of which the Annual Hoo-Hoo Day was postponed from September 9 to October 9, we have thought it advisable to arrange a meeting of some kind on the regular annual Hoo-Hoo Day, and have decided to endeavor to get together as many of the Hoo-Hoo as can possibly be here for this occasion.

"As has been stated, September 9 falls upon Sunday; and as we are churchgoing people, our plan is to start the programme at 2 o'clock P.M. on Saturday, September 8, with a large concatenation, winding up with a banquet and theater programme.

"It is expected to invite the entire Supreme Nine as guests, and it is further expected that there will be not less than ninety-nine regular candidates to initiate, and it is further expected that there will be at least nine applicants for honorary membership.

"There are in this great State of Illinois nearly four hundred members in good standing, and with the assistance and cooperation of each and every one, there is no reason why for this occasion we cannot get up a sufficiently interesting affair that will result in some beneficial notoriety for our Order, which the fact of having this gathering in the greatest city in the West ought to justify.

"There is scarcely a day when some one does not ask what significance the button that we wear has, and we feel confident that, by having a large gathering on September 8, on the following Sunday morning all of the Chicago papers (the circulation of which you all know is enormous) will have full accounts of our doings, and it will be an all-round good advertisement for all of us.

"There are just two months between now and September 9, and the entire time can be utilized in the effort to make this affair one of the grandest successes of Hoo-Hoo, and to that end we would like to have your cooperation and assistance.

"We take the liberty of charging you with $10.98, being the initiation fee and one year's dues for one candidate, and we beg to add that you will be credited with this amount upon securing the application from one strictly eligible candidate, accompanied by the necessary fee, either currency or check; in other words, all we ask of you is to secure one candidate, sending us his application, accompanied by the initiation fee and one year's dues, amounting to $10.98, and upon having done this you have no further expense, and are requested to be present and participate in the pleasure, banquet, and theater programme free of charge, the amount which we have charged against you being thereby fully paid.

"In conclusion, we wish to urge you to give this matter immediate consideration, advising us of your approval or disapproval of the programme contemplated, as it is desired to have all arrangements perfected by not later than the first week in August, to enable us to get invitations and other notices out in due time.

"Awaiting your reply, we beg to remain,

"B. T. T. O. T. G. S. B. C.,

"H. S. CANDEE, Vicegerent Southern District;

"J. L. GLASER, Vicegerent Northern District."

This is an example which might profitably be followed by other States, and the "record of work" sent in to the Annual Meeting would eclipse all former showing in this line. The Vicegerents this year have distinguished themselves by unusual energy and devotion to the interests of the Order, and the men initiated have been, with but few exceptions, of high standing and calculated to reflect credit on Hoo-Hoo. With Hoo-Hoo Day celebrated by good, big concatenations in several States, the present administration would end its work in a blaze of glory.

Vicegerent F. A. Felton is arranging for a concatenation at Milwaukee, Wis., on August 20. He writes that he has in prospect a class of from twelve to fifteen good men, and thinks probably there will be more as the time draws near.

Notes and Comments.

The following from Vicegerent F. G. Snyder, of Shreveport, La., is almost as good as that remarkable fish story of his which was published in the last "Bulletin":

"Say, you ought to have been with me in Kansas, and

"Am I very sick, do you think?"

"Oh, no. The doctor says that only two or three of your lives are in danger."

watched one of those regular old Kansans pull the cork out of a bottle of beer. I went into one man's store, with whom I had been acquainted some twenty years ago, and he suggested that we have some beer. I had known him to be a pretty good boy, so we sent for some. I pulled the cork out of the first bottle, and pulled it in regular Louisiana style, just as if I didn't give a darn who knew it. You know how a beer bottle pops when you pull the cork that way. Well, sir, one old woman in the front end of the store had hysterics; the clerk came back in the back room, thinking the fire plug had blown out; and a team hitched to the side of the building ran away. My Kansas friend was full with excitement and consternation. We drank that beer, and he pulled the next cork. Say, those Kansas fellows bring the cork out of a beer bottle easy; and when it comes out it sounds like the soft, sibilant sigh of a heartbroken maiden weeping for her absent lover, and trying to keep the old woman in the other room from getting 'next.' I tell you, it is an art; they showed me how, but—by Jove!—I can't catch on to it. If you ever go to Kansas, and want a glass of beer, you get somebody else to pull the cork.

"Yours fraternally,
F. G. SNYDER, Vicegerent Snark."

The Missouri Hoo-Hoo are feeling so well and prosperous and have taken on so festive a spirit that they found it necessary to give a picnic in order to have an opportunity to work off the superfluity of exuberant joy. The following description of the occasion was furnished the "St. Louis Lumberman" by one of the picnickers:

"Joplin, Mo., July 14.—A few days ago the lumbermen of the Joplin district, all of whom are good Hoo-Hoo, decided that a picnic would make a hit. The decision was acted upon forthwith, with the result that the first picnic of the Hoo-Hoo of that section was held at Lakeside Park on Friday, July 13. Invitations were sent out to the members by Brother J. H. Foresman, chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

"The result was that about one hundred Hoo-Hoo, with their wives and sweethearts, got together and had a royal good time. The party was composed of Hoo-Hoo and their friends from Joplin and adjacent towns, together with a few visitors from other parts, among whom was Secretary

Harry A. Gorsuch, of the Missouri and Kansas Association of Lumber Dealers, who was given a pressing invitation to put aside business cares for a day and come down and have a good time.

"The picnickers arrived at Lakeside Park (a delightful natural park, located between Cartersville and Carthage) about 3 o'clock P.M., and proceeded to stir things up. A good orchestra of eight pieces furnished music in the pavilion throughout the afternoon and evening, but the dancing did not begin until after supper. First, the boys went down to the beach, and several of them took a Coney Island trolley ride, to the great amusement of the spectators. They did not get quite near enough to the water in this way, however, and decided to adjourn to the bathing beach. The motion prevailed unanimously, and the whole crowd followed the procession to witness the great and daring aquatic feats of Brothers Marrs, Miller, Wilson, Gorsuch, Elliott, Smith, and others. It was then nearly supper time, and the committee on supper, composed of Mrs. J. H. Foresman, Mrs. L. F. Miller, Mrs. E. C. Phares, and

Mrs. Charles Wilson, had charge of arrangements for the next hour or so. When supper was over it was unanimously voted that this committee should be made a permanent one, as the members proved themselves eminently fitted for this important feature of picnics. The long table fairly groaned with good things, arranged with great artistic taste, which arrangement was quickly dispelled when the party sat down.

"Next on the programme was dancing, and this is where Brother E. C. Phares, the Committee on Music, and Brothers W. A. Sandford and Charles Wilson, Reception Committee, showed their adaptability for such work. The Reception Committee not only danced with pretty nearly all the ladies present, but also insisted that all dance, whether they could or not; and Brother Phares nearly wore the orchestra out by insisting that they play continuously, with intermissions of about one minute each, and to enliven things he performed an old-fashioned jig and was awarded the medal. They had round dances, square dances, oblong dances, mazourkas, polkas, cake walks, 'hoe downs,' Tuckers, and a few that the writer is not familiar with. The dancing continued until the musicians struck because they were unable to discourse sweet music any longer, and the first Hoo-Hoo picnic of the Joplin district adjourned with the closing strains of "Home, Sweet Home." Brothers L. A. Fillmore and L. F. Miller, the Committee on Transportation, saw that the party secured the right cars and that none were overlooked and left on the grounds, and thus the party separated after a few hours of happiness and mirth, all filled with the determination that the first Hoo-Hoo picnic should not be the last, and the probable result will be the organization of the Hoo-Hoo Social Club, having for its purpose the perpetuation of the friendships made at this picnic, and similar outings at intervals of one month or six weeks during the summer season.

"Much credit is due to Brother J. H. Foresman, who, I think, originated the movement, and who worked hard to make it a success; and it may be added that the entire party constituted themselves a Committee of the Whole to see that there were no dull moments while the Hoo-Hoo picnic was in progress."

Here is something about the kite-flying festival in China, which was sent to us by Brother E. F. Porter, of Pittsburgh, Kan.:

"There is one time of the year when every boy would not object to becoming a subject of the Chinese Empire for just one day. This time is the ninth day of the ninth month, according to the Chinese calendar. On this day a kite-flying festival is held. Then every Chinaman who has any regard for his spiritual and physical welfare and can afford a kite—and there are few, indeed, who cannot afford such an inexpensive trifle—goes to a hill and flies his kite the whole day long. The custom prevails more generally, of course, in the rural districts; for were the inhabitants of a great city like Canton or Peking each to send up a kite, the strings would become entangled and the very heavens would be darkened with such a collection of paper and string as never was seen. This custom was originated by a man who had a strangely realistic dream, in which it was revealed to him that some calamity would befall his house on a certain day. Wishing to avoid this unknown, but inevitable, disaster, he took his family to a neighboring hilltop and amused the children by flying a kite. When he returned home that night, he found that his house had literally fallen to the ground, thus killing all the dogs and pigs that had been left at home to keep house. That set the fashion, and since then, whenever the anniversary of that day comes round, other families, remembering the providential escape of their countryman, fly their kites from the hills in the belief that as the paper toys ascend they will carry off the evil spirits that might otherwise demolish their own houses and bury them in the ruins should they stay at home."

Brother Porter says:

"Dear Baird: The Hoo-Hoo of the United States of America will change the dates of these monkey-eyed heathen by the coming ninth month and ninth day of the month. Kansas has plenty of material to furnish many companies similar to their noted 'Twentieth, which will give them ample time to 'fly their kite' to the interior."

The General Committee in charge of arrangements for the Annual Meeting at Dallas, Texas, has arranged for the issuance of a handsome souvenir volume to be presented to each member present. It will contain a complete historical sketch of the Order from its organization to the present time, half-tone engravings of all of the past and present officers of Hoo-Hoo, and the chief events in its history, besides many interesting articles concerning the Order, written by prominent members. The book will be got up by Mr. Charles E. Keniston, of New York, and will be a most artistic and attractive souvenir. The historical portion of this volume will be furnished by Brother W. E. Barnes, and this in itself is a guarantee of its excellence. The souvenir is intended as a permanent memento of the Texas Annual.

Comments on Concatenations.

Vicegerent W. S. Wilson held a concatenation at Brunswick, Ga., on June 29, at which thirteen new members were added. Brother N. Gregertsen (No. 5929), of Brunswick, had in charge the preliminary work, and to his able efforts is due a large measure of the success of this most excellent meeting. A midsummer fair and carnival was in progress at the time, and the whole thing, including the concatenation, had been widely advertised by the local papers, with the result that a large number of people were in attendance and the concatenation was in every respect a most enjoyable affair. This is the second large concatenation Brunswick has had, a very memorable meeting having been held in the City by the Sea in June of last year.

Vicegerent F. G. Snyder held a concatenation at Alexandria, La., on July 21, taking in nine regular members and two "honoraries." Louisiana has made a great record this year, and there is still another meeting scheduled before the Annual Meeting. Vicegerent Snyder seems to have made something of a specialty of honorary members, for he has added six during his term of office, as shown by the "record of work" on another page.

Personal Mention.

Brother W. H. McClintock (No. 183), for many years connected with the old "Northwestern Lumberman" and afterwards with the "American Lumberman," and Brother John W. Barry (No. 293), also formerly connected with the "American Lumberman," have forsaken the field of journalism and gone into the lumber business, under the firm name of the Hawkeye Lumber and Coal Company, at Cedar Rapids, Ia. No two members of the Order are more widely or more favorably known than Brothers McClintock and Barry. "Billy" McClintock is an ex-member of the Supreme Nine, having been Senior Hoo-Hoo under the A. A. White administration. He has always been a most enthusiastic Hoo-Hoo, and has devoted his best energies to the good of the Order. Nor has his interest flagged for a moment since his term of office expired. As a private in the ranks, he has been no less devoted than as a member of the Supreme Nine. "The Bulletin" wishes the new firm the most unbounded success.

The "American Lumberman" has the following regarding the new departure of these brethren:

"The simple announcement in our record department that F. E. & L. James are succeeded in the retail lumber business at Cedar Rapids, Ia., by the Hawkeye Lumber and Coal Company conceals in it a fact, or two facts, of much moment to the 'American Lumberman' and of interest to multitudes of its readers and business friends. The Hawkeye Lumber and Coal Company is composed of John W. Barry and William H. McClintock.

"The former for two and a half years and the latter for eleven years have been important members of the staff of the 'American Lumberman' or its predecessors.

"William H. McClintock is a native of West Union, Ia., where he was born in March, 1863. He was brought up in the newspaper business, and in the latter part of his residence there was part owner and editor of the 'Fayette County Union.' In May, 1889, he sold his business in West Union and removed to Chicago, where, in August of the same year, he connected himself with 'The Timberman,' doing all-around work for both business and editorial departments, for which his training had fitted him. In April, 1892, he accepted a position on the 'Northwestern Lumberman,' with his specialties on the sash and door and hardwood departments. In 1896 Met L. Saley resigned his position as managing editor, and Mr. McClintock succeeded him. At the consolidation of the 'Northwestern Lumberman' and 'The Timberman,' January 1, 1899, and the establishment of the 'American Lumberman,' Mr. McClintock became a very important member of its editorial staff, and to his conservative and clear-sighted grasp of the lumber markets of the country is largely due the wide influence which the market columns of the 'American Lumberman' have had upon the course of the trade since that time. His relations with the public, both from his newspaper connection and his prominence in Hoo-Hoo circles, have made him hosts of personal friends and acquaintances throughout the country.

"John W. Barry is a native of Illinois and is forty-two years old. He was a pedagogue in his younger days, being a prominent member of the profession in his native State until he decided to enter the lumber business, which he did at Fairbury, Neb., in 1884, continuing in that occupation until 1896, and making a pronounced success of it. Then, as many of our readers remember, he established a lumber credit agency. This business he sold at the end of 1897 to the Lumberman's Credit Association, of this city, and became connected with the 'Northwestern Lumberman' as associate editor. Mr. Barry's long service as a retail lumberman gave him a liking for that business which has not been supplanted by his subsequent experience, and therefore for some months he has been looking about for an opportunity to reënter that trade on favorable conditions. The opportunity offered itself in the shape of the yard at Cedar Rapids, Ia., owned by F. E. & L. James, who had decided to remove to the West, and therefore Messrs. Barry and McClintock decided to become associates in that business, as they had been associates in the office of the 'American Lumberman.'

"While this paper and its readers and friends will miss them, their talents will find scope in this new field, where success may be predicted for them and where they will have an independence impossible to the newspaper man, who serves a critical and exacting clientele."

Brother George A. Gilbert (No. 4439), of the Saginaw Manufacturing Company, with headquarters formerly in Saginaw, Mich., has now removed to Chicago, where his firm has established a branch house. Mr. Gilbert has charge of this branch, and although he will have the Northwest to look after as before, he will be at home a portion of the time.

Brother M. J. Heller (No. 990), of the M. J. Heller Lumber Company, of St. Louis, writes that his firm has removed from the Temple Building to 711 Commercial Building. He asks us to see how many Hoo-Hoo nines we can make of these figures. While not claiming to be mathematical marvels, we believe we can make as many nines out of this as anybody else. By adding the numerals together, it makes nine; by adding the first two figures together, it makes nine exactly, lacking one. If you add all the figures together and three over, it makes nine and three over, which is one-third of the original nine. If you divide by nine, the quotient is seventy-nine; and then if this is divided by nine, the quotient is 8, which is just one short of nine, and, strangely enough, the remainder is seven, which is just two short of nine. All this, we think, augurs a continuance of the firm's well-deserved success.

Brother R. E. Masters (No. 71), of Los Angeles, Cal., is distinguishing himself as a fisherman, and the following account in a Los Angeles paper of the good time he is having makes us want to throw up our job and do nothing the rest of the summer:

"W. Verplanck Newlin and family, of Los Angeles, have gone into camp for the summer on the beach at Alamitos Bay, near the camp of Governor Gage. Robert E. Masters, of Long Beach, has purchased the fishing boat, Lizzie, from the McGarvins. This is a staunch sea boat, and Messrs. Masters and Newlin expect to spend a good share of their time at sea in her. This is the third summer that these two gentlemen have fished together here. Both are genuine sportsmen and experts with the rod and reel. They vie with each other to see who can handle the largest fish with the lightest tackle. The largest to date is a gray shark eight feet two inches long, actual measurement, on a twenty-one-strand cuttyhunk line, caught by Mr. Masters, who brought the fish to gaff in thirty-five minutes.

"Mr. Masters threw a brass snell loop one and a quarter inches long overboard in twenty-five feet of water on Friday afternoon, and on the following Tuesday, while angling for small pan fish, he caught a yellow fin about a pound in weight, and on dressing it he found the brass clip referred to. He now wears it on his watch chain as a charm.

"Last Wednesday Mr. Newlin had a strike and lost his leader; this was in the morning. In the afternoon Mr. Masters landed a large dog shark that had Mr. Newlin's hook in its mouth, with the leader hanging to it.

"Pretty nearly everybody in the mechanical, railroad, and manufacturing world knows Brother Masters; but we hasten to add that this fact doesn't tend in the least to discredit any part of this fish story, which literally bulges with the elements of probability. They don't know how, though, to tell a good fish story in California."

Brother A. A. Teel (No. 5195), of the Sinker-Davis Company, Indianapolis, Ind., is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon the advent of a thirteen-pound boy baby. We feel sure this boy will grow up to be a good Hoo-Hoo, and we wish him all the good luck in the world.

Brother E. A. Donnelly (No. 3733), of the J. A. Fay & Egan Company, of Cincinnati, O., was here a few days ago. Mr. Donnelly has been looking after a new furniture plant recently erected at Mine Lick, Tenn., to which he sold the entire outfit of about fifteen machines.

William Cunningham Riddle was born on December 27, 1849. He started out in life as a carpenter, and later on embarked in the lumber business. He was initiated into Hoo-Hoo at Pittsburgh on January 17, 1899.

* In some instances Vicegerents have been credited with concatenations held in their respective districts prior to their appointment. For instance, Mr. R. P. Harris, of Ark., is given credit for concatenation, No. 583, at which twelve men were initiated; Mr. Hanna, of Colorado, with concatenation No. 584, held by his predecessor, at which nineteen regular and one honorary member were admitted; and Mr. Reed of Washington, under similar circumstances, with concatenation No. 585, at which thirteen men were initiated. † Concatenation No. 64, held at Philadelphia on May 8, 1900, at which six men were initiated and which is embraced in this report was held by Mr. W. B. Wilson, the Vicegerent of Georgia, whose presence in Philadelphia proved most opportune in the unavoidable absence of Vicegerent Rumbarger on account of illness.
